General Report Comments: When I arrived at the complex, the owner of the unit being complained was contacted and I was told the owner of the unit in question said he was not available at the property and will be coming back in the afternoon. A Notice to Comply was issued for his attention. Mr. Botha phoned me at 12:40 and we made an appointment to meet 3pm or later. At around 15:45 I met with Mr. Botha who willingly invited me to look at the living conditions of the dog. A 7-year-old, female, Yorkshire terrier named 'Charlie' was found having a freedom of the apartment and the balcony was secured with wooden post which left smaller gaps for 'Charlie's' size to fit through. The said he's been living at the complex since 2010 and nobody ever complained about his dog. He alleged that the complaint may have been to get at him for reporting noisy neighbors. He said his dog is under treatment for a condition called 'Cushings' and his vet had been managing the condition very well. The dog appeared to be in acceptable condition and no concerns over its safety was noted.
