General Report Comments: On arrival at the property, no one was at the property when I hooted at the gate. While I was at the property trying to write a warning, a gentleman drove in 2 houses away from where I was and walked back all the way to me after he noticed me. He identified himself as the landlord for the property and he said that he does not own the keys for the property. I told him that there's a complaint about one of his dogs with a growth on the dog's behind. I couldn't see the dog in question in the front yard. He said I should come back at around 6 pm. I took his and arranged to come back later.
