Comments: On arrival at flat no. 804, there was no one available the time I went to investigate. I knocked at the door to no avail. Nearest neighbours of the owner came out and found me in the corridor and he said that they knows the owner and he mentioned to that they just got the dog from someone in the area who sold it to him to send the dog back home in Zimbabwe. They said that the owner is a Zimbabwean working as a long-distance transporter("Malayisha" as it is colloquially called) and the dog was set to be transported on the past Sunday of the 14th of May but due to lack of customers he had to postpone the trip. They claim the allegations were false and exaggerated because the dog was tied to restrain it from running out of the flat and may have tangled itself in struggle. I could not see the dog from the door even when the neighbours pushed the door open. They too, thought the dog may have been taken elsewhere. I left a written Warning note for the owner (believed to go by the name Ndumiso) to phone me urgently to discuss the matter. To follow up within 24 hours.
