General Report Comments: There were no adjustments made upon our follow-up inspection. We only found the shopkeeping lady named Simphiwe but the owner was not available. Water and food were available for the chickens and they had a cargo sheet for covering in case of harsh weather. I phoned Mr Makwala to find out from him and he told me that he was still collecting materials and still searching for a steelworker. He said he eventually took back the broiler chickens to in Heidelberg and he was also advised to always have a medicine antimicrobial powder called SWA-Doxy-Mycin that can be used in water to reduce the bloody stool effects. I told him that he needed to comply with the terms in the warning and the deadline I specified. I left him another warning in writing to improve the conditions promptly.
