General Report Comments: Just as I arrived at the house, the owner was driving back home from school. He asked why I was visiting them. I explained that we received a complaint about his dog that keeps on running into the street. He showed me the dog's living situation. He owns a 3-year-old, tan, spayed female, Cross Chihuahua named "Rex". "Rex" was in acceptable physical condition and she sleeps inside the house. The owner said the dog is not allowed in the front yard but the kids were playing leaving the gates to the front open. The dog was able to get to the front and find a way to escape to the streets. The gates were then secured to prevent the dog from getting into the front. When I was speaking to the owner he said he had also been seeing the complaint on their community group and if they carry on he promised he will consider surrendering the dog to the SPCA he just needs to discuss it with his family first and he will phone me should this be case.
