General Report Comments: The front of the property is enclosed with precast wall and palisade fencing with a palisade front gate. The palisade front gate has rods between the gaps; therefore, small dogs cannot escape the yard.. The sides and back of the property are enclosed with precast walls of 1.8m height. The front and back yards are separated with steel gates. The front and back yards are neat and tidy. In the back yard underneath a carport two large kennels are present.

The applicants informed me that the dogs sleep outside at night but that the small Dachshund x dog gets to be inside the house during the day if someone is home. The dogs normally have free roam to the front and back yards but the applicants intend to keep the yard separation gates closed when they adopt Douglas as they do not want him to be stolen or poisoned. Initially, he will also sleep inside the house.

The applicants had a puppy who died from parvo virus in October 2024 and the body is buried in the back yard. This poses as an extreme risk for young puppies to enter the property.
