General Report Comments: Hugh and I, arrived at the petshop and the owner told us the canary died. He brought the carcass of the same bird to show us its dead. I then educated him about cervical dislocation being a quick humane method of euthanasia.
They also removed the gold fish from the little fish tank like we asked.
We did a quick walk through to see whether the animals were alright. The owner claimed he already cleaned and fixed everything like asked. We could see most of the cages were cleaned and some bowls were replaced.
We then reminded him we will come back on Friday to check the cleanliness as there are still issues with built up faeces on the walls and gridding. He agreed that Friday should be fine.

To follow up on Friday.
