Further information

Good day, people we know have several animals, amongs them a rabbit in a cage next to their chickens. The daughter rarely takes her rabbit out and since the rabbit caught bird mites from the chickens, they keep it in the cage completely, but they also don't treat it.

The also have a single budgie in a cage next to a screaming parrot.

While I am writing to you, another family has a young dog which they keep in their garage in a cage while they are not there, is that abuse?
